By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD O April 6—Charles Wilson a young electrician was quoted today by Police Chief Merle D Unkle as protesting between sobs that he merely meant to frighten his sweetheart Jean Moorhead 17 before she was slain Saturday night in front of her home

The girl high school student and member of a socially prominent Mansfield family was killed by three bullets She had been sitting in a parked automobile with Haskell Smith 19

Wilson pleaded innocent this afternoon to a first degree murder charge

Attorney Enters Plea

Nervous and showing the effects of a fitful night in his cell Wilson remained silent while his attorney L H Beam entered the plea Preliminary hearing was waived and Judge C F Kalmbach held Wilson without bond for action of a special grand jury which meets Wednesday

Prosecutor Glenn W Marriott drew up the murder charge after he said Wilson admitted shooting the socially prominent girl while I was tight and when he found her with Haskell Smith at midnight Saturday

The prosecutor called the January grand jury into special session to consider the case

Wilson who fainted when told the girl was dead was quoted by Prosecutor Marriott as saying he had a couple of mixed drinks and I got tight He is 21

Unkle said the three-year romance between the two had met parental disapproval Wilson who was arrested three hours after the slaying admitted the shooting Chief Unkle said but insisted it was accidental

Other officers quoted Wilson as saying at first I was drunk

Ralph E Moorhead the girl's father widely known here for 25 years as an automobile dealer told the chief he had attempted to discourage his daughter and Wilson from going together because Wilson was not her type

Smith said he and the girl had returned from a show and were talking in front of the Moorhead house Wilson drove his car along side Smith said and an argument ensued with Wilson insisting the girl go with him She refused to do so Smith said

Smith said both he and Robert Moorhead 14 year old brother of the girl who arrived soon after Wilson attempted to intercede but that Wilson drew a 32-caliber revolver and shot several times

Jumps in Car and Flees

Then he jumped in the car and drove away Smith said

Wilson was quoted by the chief as saying the girls brother tussled with him and tried to take the gun away but it was discharged accidentally

I only meant to frighten her Wilson said according to the chief I did not mean to shoot her

Unkle asserted charges would be filed against Wilson today, The youth was arrested in his car at Crestline 12 miles away

Wilson works in an electrical plant He is the son of a cosmetics salesman

Miss Moorhead's twin sister Virginia was at home when the shooting occurred She came to the door as Smith carried Jean's body to the house

Brother of Grid Star

Smith is a brother of Inwood Smith Ohio State university football player

Wilson was seized as he sat in a filling station at Crestline by Marshal Albert Mack who said he took from the youth a pearl handled revolver and a small supply of extra cartridges

The Moorhead family is widely known here The girl's father Ralph E Moorhead has been an automobile dealer in Mansfield for 25 years and is prominent in civic affairs

Smith and Miss Moorhead police said left a downtown movie at 10 45 drove aimlessly about for half an hour and then parked in front of the Moorhead home

Notices Car Coming

'We were talking and I happened to notice a car parked up the street Smith told police We were just about to go in the house when the car started toward us and Jean said Oh, oh here he comes.' Just before that she told me she didn't have a date with Wilson for next Saturday and added, 'As far as I'm concerned I don't ever want to see him again'

'When he drew alongside, he got out of the car," Smith continued, "and said, 'Jean come with me.' Jean said she was going to stay in the car He told her again to get out and when she refused he seized her arm. She tried to push him back and then he pulled a gun out of his pocket."

Smith said he remonstrated with Wilson, telling him to "take your hands off Jean"

Wilson replied, according to

(Copyright 1936 Associated Press)

ASMARA ERITREA April 6—Native Askari of Italy's northern army after capturing the important town of Quoram pressed on in pursuit of Emperor Haile Selassie's fleeing army today traveling rapidly down the road to Dessye

An official communique said the battle of Lake Ashangi 30 miles south of the former front lines at Amba Alaji was completed after the decisive defeat Saturday of Ethiopia's imperial bodyguard

Fascist aerial squadrons which dropped 70 tons of explosives on the retreating natives and fired 20 000 rounds of machine gun ammunition during the week end slackened their activities as the army of the Ethiopian king of kings broke up into small bodies

Rear Guard Action Halts

Italian militarists said there was no longer any attempt at rear guard action by the natives and expressed belief that the Ethiopian ammunition was exhausted

The Eritrean Askari were the first to enter Quoram marching without resistance yesterday into that famous town former field headquarters of Emperor Haile Selassie and starting point of the open motor road directly to Addis Ababa

White troops from Italy's first army corps occupied the town later while the Eritreans headed straight on the 100-mile road to Dessye Haile Selassie was believed to be either at Dessye or back in Addis Ababa like all his northern generals in defeat

List Casualties at 10,000

Italians estimated that the Ethiopians might have suffered as many as 10 000 casualties during the breaking up of the best of Emperor Haile Selassie's armies The Fascist dead and wounded were described only as comparatively small

Great jubilation spread through the Italian columns at the prospect of much easier ground ahead instead of the torturous mountain area which has been the scene of all previous northern fighting

Progress may be swift over the fairly good roads south of Quoram

Massillon Moves With Caution in Considering Water Plant Purchase

Voters Reject One Municipal Ownership Project and Another Like One Pending in Marion Is Shelved; Plant Shows Profit at Rate Lower Than Marion's.

BY BOB BYRD
Marion Star Staff Writer

MASSILLON O April 6—Massillon like Marion has heard much talk in recent years about water rates and proposals for municipal ownership of its water system

Highlights included the writing of a new water rate that involved a study of the city's water plant value and at least two separate proposals for municipal ownership

As in Marion Massillon has heard a variety of figures given as the value of its water system The Ohio Water Service Co owner of the Massillon system gives the plant a book value of $3 000 000 The state utilities commission engineers who appraised the plant for rate making purposes fixed the replacement value at $1 410 000 However they deducted enough for depreciation to lower the appraised value for rate making purposes to $1 137 000 Still another valuation was given when engineers retained by city council estimated the plant to be worth $1 090 000

This variety of figures may have confused the average Massillon resident about the plant's true worth At least it did not tend to sell the community on the idea of municipal ownership because a bond issue to provide funds for purchase of the plant was voted down in 1934

Similar Situations

The water system that serves this Stark county city of 30 400 residents is similar in many respects to the plant of the Marion Water Co Both cities obtain their water from wells and both plants soften the water before pumping it into mains

Although the Massillon plant has a book value of $1 900 000 and the Marion Water Co lists its plant's valuation at $1 013 894 or $286 106 less the Massillon plant has been able to show average net earnings of between $70 000 and $75 000 in the last several years on a rate schedule lower than Marion's

The Massillon rate provides a minimum domestic charge of $1.09 a quarter or $12 36 a year In return for this consumers are allowed to use 10.9 cubic feet of water every three months In Marion the domestic minimum rate is $18 a year and the amount of water allowed for this is 300 cubic feet a month or 900 cubic feet a quarter Water costs 31 cents a hundred cubic feet in the first bracket of the Massillon rate whereas the corresponding figure for Marion is 45 cents

Fire hydrant rentals in Massillon are $41 80 a year for each hydrant slightly higher than the $41 annually paid in Marion

The domestic water rate in Massillon is 31 cents a hundred cubic feet for the first 1 000 cubic feet per month 23 cents a hundred for the next 10 000 and 15 cents a hundred for all over 11 000

Vital Points Raised

In the different proposals Massillon has heard regarding purchase of the plant by the city the merits of municipal ownership were not the only questions involved As in Marion the principal questions appeared to be (1) could the plant be bought worth the money and (2) could it be paid for by the city without rate increases and with assurance of rate reductions in later years

Municipal purchase of the plant became a lively topic in 1933 and by 1934 council had voted to place a $1 785 000 bond issue proposal on the ballot to buy or build a water system However, the bond issue went to the voters at the Nov 6 election that year in advance of complete negotiations — Massillon residents didn't know exactly how much the plant could be bought for and according to an editorial in the Massillon Independent the city had not been told how the remainder of the issue was to be spent after the plant had been purchased The bond issue was defeated by a margin of a few hundred votes

Early last year Massillon and Marion started studying the possibility of municipal purchase of their water plants by issuing revenue bonds secured only by mortgage on the plants At almost identically the same time the councils of both cities signed financing agreements with the bond houses of Walter, Woody & Heimerdinger of Cincinnati and C W McNear of Chicago in which they agreed, in the event of municipal purchase, to sell the revenue bonds to these houses at an interest rate of four and one-half per cent.

In Marion, the purchase agreement became the basis upon which the 1935 council voted to buy the Marion Water Co. plant for

MARYSVILLE, O, April 6—One of two women who staged a daring rope-ladder escape from the Ohio Reformatory for Women was under close guard today while a statewide search went forward for her companion, a convicted kidnaper

Supt. Marguerite Reilley named Ruth Fox, 22, of Akron as the ringleader in an early morning escape Sunday from the second story of the administration building

The Fox girl was captured within an hour, but Nellie Newman, 22, of Adams county serving a one to 20-year term for kidnaping, made good her escape

Mrs. Reilley said the prisoners made a rope of bed sheets and fashioned it into a ladder to drop from their rooms, the windows of which are unprotected by bars.

"The escape was made possible because the windows were not barred," Mrs. Reilley said. "I have taken steps to see that bars are placed on all windows."

Miss Newman was convicted with Frank Hall, of Hamilton

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge and Dicky Map Plan of Action on Strangers

WAS DICKY expecting some definite danger of which I knew nothing or had the terrifying tale which Mrs Ticer had told me of the men in the shack on the abandoned farm impressed him more than I had thought when I had related it to him?

This was the question racing through my mind as I saw him take a revolver from his wall safe load it and slip it into his coat pocket He has a permit to carry a revolver as has my father but neither man avails himself of the privilege unless he fears an emergency of some sort which might need the protection which a weapon in the hands of a trained marksman would give

As he turned from locking the safe he sent a shrewd glance to my face and I knew that he had fathomed the turmoil in which my thoughts were swirling

Don't look so—I won't say frightened for you don't know the meaning of that word he said gallantly But—shall we say—so Jerky There's nothing to get excited about I often pick a gun when I'm going out at night especially when I have a lovely lady to escort No telling when I might be called on to defend her from a beast mad dog or a madman driven wild by her beauty and her cruelty

Knows His Motive

I was perfectly familiar with the reason for this nonsense Dicky lays down a barrage of it whenever he does not wish to be questioned about some specific action of his

Bowing to the inevitable for I knew that he purposely would refuse to be serious I put down a counter barrage

We are not amused I quoted loftily and you have misunderstood our look We are not even curious

Dicky looked at me loweringly although the corners of his mouth were twitching

Just a little more of that he threatened and you'll stay at home if I have to lock you in a clothes closet and put a guard with a gun outside Katie—no she'd let you out and shoot you by mistake in the process Jim no—you have him buffaloed It would have to be the guard dad left and at that you'd probably have his revolver and his motorcycle by the time I got back But you mind your step and shut up Do you hear?

Yes my lord I murmured meekly If you promise not to beat me

He caught me by the arm and rushed me outside to the waiting car

If I'd beaten you up every Saturday night since we were married I might have made a perfect wife out of you he said laughing as I did at the familiar gibe and then we were off

Explains Action

Now I'll be serious Dicky said as he guided the car into the highway "I don't anticipate any trouble, but I'm superstitious enough to believe that if you're prepared for it, you generally don't get it But I'm not taking any chances with those birds on the hill, and the little pal of Jack Leslies who's still roaming around these parts.

"I want you to watch your side of the road, and if you see anything that looks queer to you tell me I can depend on you to speak softly and make no fuss. I'll attend to my side. Savvy?"

"Yes I'll watch carefully I answered

"Then that's that" he said "Now the next question before the house is what we ought to do about those birds on the hill. They're murderous brutes, you know It's dangerous to have them up there and yet—what do you think"

His voice held a genuine appeal for my advice instead of the usual tory courtesy which he sometimes gives me and I responded to it as best I could

They are dangerous I knew" I said but on the other hand aren't they a link with the gang which father is probably hunting down?"

They're the only link" Dicky responded and therefore I'd like to let them have all the line they want run the reel out away It might lead us to the spawning beds But in the meantime some innocent bystander like Mrs. Ticer may get hurt."

They probably wouldn't consider her an innocent bystander if they knew what she had seen and heard—and told I said

Exactly and they're considering that possibility with anybody who happens up there

We'll be accessories before the fact if we don't report their presence up there and if we do they'll be arrested and turn into clams No getting any trace of their gang through them

Are there any of father's old aides that you could get hold of by telephone tonight? I asked

MANSFIELD MURDER SUSPECT QUIZZED

Smith, "mind your own business or I'll shoot you. I'm tight enough to shoot the both of you."

Smith said he opened the car door and was about to attempt to disarm Wilson when Robert Moorhead drove up with Ralph Schad, Jr., a friend.

"Bob came up and stood between Wilson's car and mine," Smith related, "and told Jean to come into the house with him. Wilson shoved him and I started to step off the running board when I heard three or four shots.

Slumps in Seat

"Then he jumped in his car and drove away. Jean was slumped down on the seat and I leaned over her, trying to see how badly hurt she was. I heard her mutter, 'Charles, Charles,' and then she died."

Wilson's father and mother, grief-stricken at their home, said their son was "very fond" of Jean and added that they had not heard him speak of her in the last few days.

Marshal Mick of Crestline joined in the search for the slayer after his description had been broadcast by Mansfield police. Mick said he had received a complaint some one was loitering at the gasoline station.

Find Car in Ontario

State highway police found Wilson's car at Ontario, five miles west of here, and police were trying to learn how he reached Crestline.

Chief Unkle and Prosecutor Marriott questioned Wilson at police headquarters and afterwards Unkle said:

"It was deliberate and premeditated murder."

Police said Wilson's only words when he was brought to the police station were:

"I was drunk."

Hugh C. Winbigler, Richland county coroner, said Miss Moorhead was wounded three times. One of the bullets entered her right side, passed near the heart and emerged from the left side. Another was imbedded in her back. The third struck her in the neck.

FISH HITS AT TAFT'S CRITICISM OF BORAH

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., April 6—Hamilton Fish Jr., Republican of New York, issued a statement criticizing Robert A. Taft, Ohio "favorite son" candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, and then told a forum at St. James' A. M. E. church yesterday that Negroes were being given false propaganda against Sen. William E. Borah, candidate for the G. O. P. nomination.

"I am informed," said Fish in the statement, "that my personal friend, Robert A. Taft, in his recent speech in Cleveland, said that he would accept any candidate for the Republican nomination except Borah and that he was opposed to Borah's policies.

"This is the height of folly. Such tactics already have driven 10,000,000 voters out of the Republican party, and the continuation of such blind leadership would drive out of the party every forward-looking liberal member."

CREMATOR PREPARES HAUPTMANN SERVICE

Widow To Take Parting Look at Body; Wendel 'Confession' Investigation Continues.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., April 6 — While detectives searched parts of Brooklyn today for the house in which Paul H. Wendel said he was forced to "confess" the Lindbergh baby kidnaping, a cremator prepared a simple last rite for the body of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

Mrs. Anna Hauptmann, widow of the man electrocuted for the kidnap-slaying, planned to take a parting look at his body today before the services, scheduled for 1 p. m.

It was announced the funeral would be conducted by Rev. D. G. Werner, Seventh Day Adventist pastor in the Bronx, and by Rev. John Matthiesen, Hauptmann's spiritual advisors. Mrs. Hauptmann and possibly three other persons completed the list of those expected to attend.

After the service—in the sombre chapel of the Fresh Ponds crematory—the arrangements called for the witnesses to see the plain brown casket containing the body rolled into a pre-heated incinerating furnace.

There a forced fire at a temperature of 2,000 degrees Centigrade assured that within a hour and a half only a few pounds of ashes would remain.

An undertaker's surgeon had prepared Hauptmann's body so that little was visible of the marks of his death. The body was clad in a dark grey suit, apparently one that the prison gave him. Beneath were a white shirt and a black and white tie.

The body was taken to the crematory chapel in suburban Maspeth on Long Island early yesterday. Later it was viewed by five women friends of Mrs. Hauptmann and two men.

One of the men made a death mask of Hauptmann. Another woman slapped a policeman who turned her away. She was taken to police headquarters and booked on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Not Surprising.

Conclusive defeat of the Borah slate in the New York primaries was not surprising, but it was significant. In New York state, as in Ohio, Republican voters were asked to choose between delegates pledged to Sen. Borah and delegates under control of the regular organization. They chose the latter, thereby placing the state's 90 delegates at the disposal of an undesignated candidate, to be selected in the party convention by organization leaders.

Borah delegates were not given any more than an outside chance to win in the New York primary, so their defeat is not surprising. Yet because the situation was typical of that in certain other states, the outcome of the voting is an important indication of Sen. Borah's political strength, or lack of it in states whose Republican voters face the same political circumstances. Clearly, the Borah bandwagon has mired down. There is no rush to climb aboard.

It was known in advance that Sen. Borah's strength did not lie in New York, or in states with similar interests. It was not known definitely, however, that the senator's political strength in the Empire state was so slight. Political analysts have been given a basis for evaluation of the Borah strength in other states as a result of the New York primary.

Nothing But Sympathy.

Emperor Haile Selassie confirms the Italian claim that Mussolini's colonizers have been winning some important victories by urging the League of Nations to invoke stronger sanctions against Italy and to come to Ethiopia's assistance with cash. The emperor emotionalizes his appeal with a recitation of Italian atrocities against non-combatants and destruction of homes, hospitals and churches.

It is hardly likely, however, that the League will find anything but sympathy to offer the harassed Lion of Judah. Repeatedly, as discussion of sanctions continued, the powers have revealed reluctance to do any more than flirt dangerously with the idea of applying effective oil embargoes against Italy. Led by Great Britain, which had its election situation and European position to consider, the sanctionists made a gesture against Mussolini's belligerency and called it a day. Plausible excuses, such as lack of support from the United States, rolled smoothly off diplomatic tongues.

At the moment, the powers are earnestly engaged with the Rhineland question. Ethiopia must seem very far away. But even if they should conclude a workable pact with Hitler, they might awake to face the accomplished fact of Mussolini's domination over Ethiopia. They might reawake then to another question, currently neglected. Will Italian ambitions stop with the conquest of Emperor Haile Selassie and his chieftains?

No Pay.

George L. Berry has become the Roosevelt administration's newest behind the scenes operator. The trouble is, there's not enough mystery about what Mr. Berry is doing.

A few days ago he was given a new lease on the job of "coordinator for industrial cooperation," which formerly consisted in standing guard over the remains of the NRA blue eagle. The presidential order describing his duties said he was to promote conferences of industry, investors, labor and consumers to supplement the government's efforts by providing employment and improving industrial, commercial and labor standards.

That seemed plain enough. Mr. Berry was going to be the official pourer of oil on troubled waters. He was to be President Roosevelt's handy man. He was to coordinate things. But almost before the news was digested Mr. Berry announced he was forming an organization to be known as Labor's Nonpartisan League, which had as its immediate purpose the reelection of President Roosevelt. Mr. Berry, himself president of the Printing Pressmen's Union, says about 300 labor leaders, including John L. Lewis, are behind him.

Naturally, the announcement caused a good deal of excitement and is going to cause much more. A "coordinator for industrial cooperation" should be non-partisan. Many critics are going to say it would be better for Mr. Berry to do his political spadework somewhere outside the supposedly non-partisan precincts of the recovery setup of the new deal. It is a good deal as though Harry Hopkins, works progress administrator, should start campaigning for the Democratic nomination for president without pay. There is a WPA appropriation for the job, but no pay check for Mr. Berry. A hair has been split. The opposition has been tricked. But, strangely enough, no one seems to be fooled. It is too easy to believe Mr. Berry is going to use his $100,000 appropriation for "industrial cooperation" for only distantly related purposes. The country wants to know more about Mr. Berry. His job suddenly has become exceedingly interesting.

Once Removed.

Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, naturally resents charges of political favoritism against the vast WPA organization which he directs. He is confronted with a difficult problem in administrative attitude. He is being asked to accept responsibility for a condition which he cannot control.

If he were to grant there is basis for the charges he would expose the Roosevelt administration to possibly severe damage by its political opponents. There is, of course, a political motive for trying to embarrass Mr. Hopkins, and he knows it.

On the other hand, WPA is so widespread and information about its operation is so generally available that Mr. Hopkins cannot deny categorically charges which large numbers of citizens know are based on actual conditions. Mr. Hopkins needs to find a middle position.

Apparently, he has described that middle position in his latest reply to WPA critics. "It all depends on what you mean by politics," he said last Friday. "The implication of the charges always is that people get jobs because of political influence. I personally have yet to see any person who got his job because of political influence. Of course in the administration of WPA we have to have people who believe in the program."

The concluding sentence of the statement is the story. It says plainly that WPA policy calls for friendly administrators. That is not, in itself, partisanship, but inasmuch as friendliness will be measured in most cases by a standard of sympathy with the Democratic party it is a sort of second cousin to politics. If Mr. Hopkins were to add that he is unable from his office in Washington to see what is going on in every community with a WPA organization, he should be pretty well squared away on an admission that politics, whether or not he likes the idea, has entered WPA. No one blames Mr. Hopkins personally for what has happened, but it seems more than a little foolish for him to insist that what he doesn't want to see isn't there.

Credit vs. Social Credit.

Social uplifters the world over have had a hard winter. Alberta's social credit advocates are latest to notice the killing frosts.

Admittedly, social credit forces, under Premier William Aberhart, haven't done anything to deserve the threatening fate, for they haven't even tried to enact their visions into law. Maybe they found the reality of holding office too much for them. But whatever the reason, the province of Alberta has just defaulted on a $3,200,000 bond maturity.

Pleas to the Dominion government for aid came to nothing because Premier Aberhart refused to accept supervision of provincial finances. Major Douglas, author of the social credit hallucination, has decided he cannot cooperate with his Alberta disciples, furthermore. Thus, driven to desperation, it appears that Mr. Aberhart called upon an orthodox financier to help balance the budget, a thing which never should have been done by a red-blooded social crediteer.

It is possible, though, that as Alberta tries to get over the bond maturity hurdle with a complicated refunding scheme, Premier Aberhart may realize orthodoxy is just what is needed for his case of frost bite. Social credit may be as good as gold in the millenium, but when a government defaults on bonds it will find old fashioned credit quite useful—and difficult to obtain.

Packing and Unpacking.

Members of the Ohio senate committee investigating unemployment insurance deny vigorously they are interested, either as individuals or as a group, in blocking that particular form of social security legislation. Nevertheless, they are under a cloud. Without opposition, the senate on Thursday passed a motion directing the lieutenant governor to appoint a new committee. It is possible the lieutenant governor might appoint the same senators, but critics of the present committee, which will be relieved when the new committee is appointed, will use their influence to obtain new names.

Regardless of the fairness or unfairness of the charge against the existing committee, many Ohioans will be curious to know what charge may be brought against its successor. In a case like this one there seems to exist a strong possibility that those who impugn the impartiality of one group may be interested in the organization of another group whose impartiality would be equally questionable, but by the opposite school of thought. In other words, it is hard to imagine that senators who favor a certain type of unemployment insurance have become devoted suddenly to the principle of impartiality. It's more likely they would like to unpack the investigating committee and pack it again with their own sympathizers.

College Endowments Affected by Act

Educational Institutions May Be Forced Out of Industrial Investment Field If Earnings Tax Becomes Law.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1936, by The Marion Star

WASHINGTON, April 6—Colleges, universities, labor unions and educational institutions may find themselves driven out of the investment field for their endowment funds if the house sub-committee report on the undistributed earnings tax becomes law without modification.

For the committee report defines the term "undistributed net income" to mean "the adjusted net income minus the sum of taxable dividends" paid during the tax year.

Taxable dividends, it will be assumed, means dividends that can be taxed. But the dividends received by colleges, universities, charitable and other non-profit organizations from the investment of their funds cannot be taxed. Hence any big industrial company which happens to have among its stockholders any of these educational institutions will find that it cannot deduct as taxable dividends that portion of its income which is paid out as dividends to the institutions and hence the penalty becomes greater depending on how much the educational or charitable institutions happen to hold.

In some instances where a company happens to have 25 or 30 per cent of its securities in the hands of charitable organizations due to bequests or trusts set up by philanthropists in the past, an interesting question will arise as to how those companies can be prevented from paying a higher penalty than companies which do not happen to have such institutions among their stockholders.

The words "taxable dividends," however, were put in the committee report for a purpose. It may be that the object was to prevent any confusion with stock dividends which are not taxable. It might, of course, be that the words "taxable dividends" were used to discourage educational institutions from investing their funds in industrial enterprises and to compel them to keep their funds wholly in government securities.

Whatever the aim, the fact remains that all educational and charitable institutions may find that a literal interpretation of the house sub-committee report places a company in which they hold shares at a serious disadvantage as compared with another company that does not number such institutions among its stockholders. If these companies find that it costs them too much money to have on their list any stockholders whose dividends cannot be deducted from "undistributed net income," efforts will be made either to call in the stock or else to purchase the shares from the institutions, in which case the latter will find other companies eager to prevent them from acquisition of other shares.

Some amendment permitting the undistributed net income to have deducted from it all dividends that are taxable, including the dividends paid to organizations specifically exempted by federal law from taxation, would seem to be needed to correct the defect.

It is interesting to note that the house sub-committee retains the idea of an exemption from taxation for education and charity itself, as to the old law, for its report says:

"It is recommended that corporations now exempt from income tax under section 101 of the revenue act of 1934 (labor, agricultural, charitable, and other non-profit corporations) be exempt from the new plan and from the corporation tax under existing law."

While the committee, therefore, has taken care to see that the charitable and educational institutions are themselves not taxed, it has left the companies in which such institutions hold stock in a predicament. The embarrassments that might flow to educational and charitable enterprises in the event that they constitute a handicap to industrial corporations are such that a drive to amend the proposed definition of undistributed net income may confidently be expected when the significance of the present inadequate phraseology of the sub-committee report is fully understood by all the educational enterprises concerned.

The incident illustrates how difficult it is for the taxpaying companies to determine what the proposed tax really means, since the hearings at present being held are upon a theoretical proposal and not on any specific piece of legislation, as is customary.

Men and Affairs Under The Washington Spotlight.

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 6 — The Rhineland seizure by force, says Hitler, was the last of his series of blows designed to remove shackles from Deutschland. Of course, no one believes that.

On the contrary there is very good reason for suspecting that the Rhineland blow was the first of a new series designed to make Deutschland the most powerful nation on the European continent.

No one really knows, but this is the accepted theory of silent men here who make it their business to know far more about what is going on around the world than the censors abroad permit to be published.

Vision

The next Hitler blow, as they see it, will be delivered southward, not eastward as generally expected. It will start down through central Europe and work through the Balkans, with the shores of Turkey as its ultimate goal. The conquest will not be conducted by arms, but by cunning diplomatic force.

The first move may come this summer in the form of an Anschluss with Austria. It will come while England and France are in their present mood, determined not to fight; after the Rhineland diplomatic ripples have died away; as soon as Austria has decided what she is going to be. (The arming of Austria was begun a few days ago with the passage of the new conscription act, proposing to keep 6,000 men in arms.)

Then similar economic agreements will be pressed upon Hungary, Yugoslavia and possibly even the allies of France, Czechoslovakia and Roumania. They will bring new markets to Germany, new grazing lands, the largest munitions works in the world. They would contribute to an underground empire more powerful than Bismark's. Germany would thus become the dominant nation on the continent.

At least this is the hidden vision in Hitler's mind, as perceived by those best able to perceive it from this distance.

The War

One crowd believes Hitler will never get beyond an Austrian Anschluss. They think that will start the war. France and Italy will be aroused sufficiently then to go in and suppress Hitler before he goes further. England will side with the winner.

Another crowd places more faith in Hitler's diplomatic shrewdness. They expect him to time and conceal each of his moves as wisely as he did the seizure of the Rhineland. He will pick the time when the other nations are otherwise occupied, when they are least inclined to fight.

All agree that Hitler is not ready to fight yet. Their dope is that his air forces will not be ready before late in the summer. His artillery will not be fully developed until next summer. He will certainly not fight this year if he can avoid it.

The best guess as to the time of the outbreak of the war, therefore, is this summer at the earliest, more probably next summer, and 1938 at the latest.

Psychology

Russia is the only nation really hankering to fight Germany now. She sees the handwriting on the map of central Europe. However, she is woefully weak on communications and her general staff is by no means the brainest in Europe. She would really be no match for Germany if Poland sides with Germany, as every military man expects.

A military defeat for Russia would probably mean the end of the Soviet social experiment and a return of the White Russians to power. The Reds therefore, cannot venture alone. They must shoot with France, and France is in a confused condition. Her people have been fed the dogma of fear, the doctrine of defense, but her forts are impregnable. Hitler will never run his head against them. They were so strong 22 years ago that the kaiser did not care to try them, but outflanked them through Belgium. Now they are twice as strong and the Belgian flank gate is closed.

Technique

There were two very good unadvertised reasons why France did not try to push Germany out of the Rhineland at once. One is that her people are not in the proper mood to fight an invading war. The other is that it would have cost them upward of a million men.

Hitler's Rhineland maneuver has been played up as a diplomatic stroke, but the military brilliance of it has been overlooked. The Rhineland was sown overnight with machine gun nests, backed by artillery. That is the German way. It has not changed since the World war. Any counter-step by the French would have been taken at heavy costs.

But the most amazing thing about it is that it was organized without a single outside government, except probably Britain, having any advance notice. The insiders say that Britain was secretly tipped by Germany as to her intentions, but even Britain did not know the troops were going to be sent in.

O. O. McIntyre's Diary of Fact, Fancy and Folks.

NEW YORK, April 6—Diary: Sat until my lady came by and mocked: "Staring again!" So talking to Burton Rasco who told me Max Miller, as good a writer as I know about, was in town, and he had arranged a meeting for us. And I chuckled at Michael Arlen's description of a lass, "gilpy but without perfume."

Out and sat awhile with my former landlord, Albert Keller, bought the game "Monopoly," which I shall probably never play, and looked in on Irene Hayes, who gave me a jappri posey. Then home where came Zoe Beckley, whom I greatly love, and we talked of days on the Evening Mail.

To dinner at Lucy Virginia Long's at Greenwich and Natalie Gordon there. Back to the city for a late snack with George Palmer and Amelia Earhart Putnam at the Coffee House Club and home, reading Wilkie Collin's "The Moonstone," by which mystery lovers set such store.

Not even their intimates were ever able to explain the feminine appeal of the fabulous Molvani trio, two of whom were so tragically obliterated. Not one could be called an Apollo, each being inclined to avoirdupois, nor were they brilliant conversationalists or even adept at small talk. Stylists say they lacked clothes sense and while going in for sports, none excelled. The genuineness of their titles has always been a target for eye lifts, yet no three men in America have had such a devastating way with the ladies. The It Boys with a bang!

One of the city's best known steady climbs—and attained almost solely by out of towners—is the circular stairs leading up through the Statue of Liberty on Bedloe's Island. One night in the Lambs it developed that the only person in the crowded grill who had made the trip was Laurence D'Orsay, the English star. Unlike Eiffel Tower, it can only be scaled afoot. I never met a born New Yorker who made the journey, yet it is said to offer the most entrancing view of all of the harbor. Jim Corbett used to walk up and down the steps to keep his legs supple.

Most listeners are continually surprised at Major Bowes's instant knowledge of music, both classical and modern, in his broadcasts. His easy informative graps of the subject is never rehearsed, always impromptu. He has been broadcasting and arranging musical concerts from the Capitol theater a dozen years. His early background was musical and he plays several instruments, aside from being a mean baritone in suddenly recruited quartettes. He has one of the most complete musical libraries in the country. And he can conduct a symphony orchestra expertly enough to win praise from Toscanini.

TODAY — Emperor Not at Home When Bombers Come.

ADDIS ABABA is bombed by Italian planes from more than a mile above the city, natives shooting at the Italian pilots with rifles that could not possibly carry one-quarter of the distance. Correspondents with receiving sets listened to the Italian pilots talking to each other by radio. Haile Selassie, hurrying south, was not at home when they called. That war should be over soon.

France and England have an awkward situation: France, anxious not to offend Italy, in case of trouble with Germany, wishes to forget Ethiopia. England is more interested than ever, not on account of Haile Selassie. One dusky ruler more or less makes little difference to England, she who has gathered in so many. But Italy now holds Lake Tana, and Lake Tana supplies water for the Blue Nile, which helps irrigate England's Sudan and Egypt. You know how a farmer would feel if he depended on water from a spring on the hill and somebody else took over the spring.

Alliance Likely

An offensive and defensive treaty between Japan and Germany, like the one between France and Russia, is considered a certainty.

It should be possible for nations that want to survive and prosper to get together and let others that must fight kill each other off when they tire of it. This country, at least, should carry out that plan.

U. S. Has Half the Idle

The League of Nations is of little use in preventing wars or influencing combative countries, but it keeps statistics usefully. It shows that just now the total men employed in the world amount to twenty-two millions.

The fact that this "richest and industrially most highly developed country" has more than half of all the world's idle, after trying to create work, is no great tribute to our intelligence.

Reasons for Failure

Dr. Alice E. Johnson, psychiatrist of Philadelphia's municipal court, gives six reasons for marriage failures. They are: Difference in family backgrounds of husband and wife; relatives interfering, especially mothers-in-law; infidelity; incompatibility; alcoholism, and a desire to "dominate." There is a seventh reason, to be found in the nature of man, who is still 98 per cent in the age of barbarism.

Russians Disagree

The Japanese Gen. Nishio is not such a thing as war between Japan and Russia is impossible. Several nations were saying this in the early part of 1914. In diplomacy, a denial is almost an affirmation.

Russia evidently does not think war with Japan impossible Stalin, in case Japan should decide on war, is ready, with 600,000 troops, fully equipped, in the Far East. There two permanent military centers have been established to anticipate difficulties of transportation.

More than a hundred and three years ago, the French philosopher Charles Fourier, predicted that a war with Japan Russia would come to grief by transport troubles across Lake Baikal, frozen in winter. That lake will cut no figure with Stalin's war with Japan if he has one.

Fine Measurements

In a lawsuit about razor blades experts showed that one whisker is one-250th of an inch in width. That seems close measuring to the late Professor Michelson of Chicago university, telling the French that he would help them to reconstruct their meter at any time without that stick of platinum they keep buried in the ground. He measured a spectrum ray, about one millionth part of an inch. The French doubted it, but applauded when they verified the worth of Michelson, who got the Nobel prize.

As a matter of fact, a human whisker is a petty coarse thing, like a giant redwood in the atmole world. A million electrons might dance on the tip end of it, as a legion of angels might dance on the "point of a needle, if they were small enough."

Understands Money

Winthrop W. Aldrich, head of the Chase National bank, biggest in America, knows about money as did his father before him the late senator from Rhode Island who invented the federal reserve plan and put it through. Mr. Aldrich thinks it would not be a good idea to turn money loose and encourage a speculative stock gambling boom. He remembers 1928.

Under certain circumstances "the prospect of inflation is very great indeed," says Mr. Aldrich, but warns against "the erection of a top-heavy structure of credit again." He thinks the federal reserve board should raise the legal reserve requirements of member banks. Reckless lending may come for inflation already exists, hidden away in the banks.

Something of Interest

At New York's Museum of Science and Industry, in Rockefeller Center, Dr. Stephen Zand, formerly a flier in the Polish and French armies, told of airplane progress in Europe that should interest Washington, D. C. A tiny plane, for which the parts can be bought cheaply, is built by Frenchmen in their backyards, as Americans build radio sets. The French call this plane "the sky louse." England has something like it, called, more politely, "the flea."

Most important, Dr. Zand went to Europe, employed by the French government, to make airplanes soundproof. Some foreign country will build a bullet plane to fly the Atlantic ocean in six hours, the Pacific between sunrise and sunset. Then it may be too late for us to become interested.

THERE was a time when the House of Hassett was divided. When Mother Hassett was strong for the New York Giants, Father Hassett was trying his best to root the Yankees into the American league championship.

But all that has been changed. The Hassetts are united and one big happy family now. And all because Buddy Hassett is a member of the Brooklyn Dodgers with excellent prospects of being their regular first baseman. The Dodgers bought Buddy from Newark the Yankees farm when they sold their first baseman Sam Leslie back to the Giants. They gave up Ralph Boyle, Jack McCarthy and something like $5,000 in cash for the 24-year-old graduate of Manhattan college. But what of it? They picked up one of the best first basemen in the minors as well as two staunch supporters in his mother and father.

Hassett learned his baseball on the sand lots of New York City. He played ball with the Manhattan Prep nine and was the star of the Jasper varsity when he moved on to Manhattan college.

Paul Krichell, Yankee scout, spotted Buddy in his freshman year at college and kept close tab on him all through his college days. He was the property of the Yankees when he was graduated in 1933. With Wheeling W. Va. of the Middle Atlantic league Hassett hit 332 and with Norfolk he boosted the mark to 360.

Played with Columbus

When he moved on up to Newark of the International league Buddy was optioned off to Columbus in the American association. He suffered a broken leg in mid season last year but came back to play the last month of the season. He picked up where he had left off and finished the season with a batting average of 337.

He and Johnny Mize the former Rochester player now with the St. Louis Cardinals were ranked as the two best first basemen in the minor leagues.

The Brooklyn clubhouse is sure to resound with the musical notes of Buddy's rich tenor voice. He is an inveterate shower-bath singer specializing in Irish ballads.

His vocal contributions at the recent dinner of the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers association had everyone asking who the handsome singer might be. He was Yankee property then—and the man slated to take Lou Gehrig's place at first base when the Iron Man finally slowed up.

Lullaby Singer

When Hassett was headed for Clearwater, Fla. to join the Dodgers in training he discovered on the train a young mother who was driven to near distraction because her baby would not stop crying and go to sleep. Buddy volunteered his services and in short order sang the youngster to sleep. So effective was his singing in producing the desired results that Buddy was called upon to repeat the act several times on the journey south.

Hassett is mighty happy to be with a club that offers him the opportunity to play regularly. The prospect of remaining on the Yankees payroll and waiting for Lou Gehrig to run down did not appeal to Buddy. He wants action. The chances are that he will find plenty of it with Brooklyn.

Cochrane Thinks Tigers Will Stay Up There in '36

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. April 6. Mickey Cochrane a fair saxophone player a good golfer but a great catcher isn't worried this spring about the law of averages.

I'm sorry to see that so great a champion as Bob Jones could not come through with the old time stuff here, said Mickey after spending an idle day here as rain washed out both the exhibition game involving his world champion Detroit Tigers and the finals of the Augusta National golf tournament.

I know they say it's tough to come back and tougher to stay on top but you can't blame me for thinking the Tigers will stay up there.

'Maybe it will be harder going for us this year with at least four other clubs in the American League considerably stronger but I'm not worried at the outlook now. The third pennant was the easiest when I was with the Athletics.

It was suggested to Manager Cochrane that the Cleveland Indians victims of bad breaks for the past two years figured to benefit from the law of averages and perhaps be the club to beat.

'Who can tell?' answered Mike. But you can't expect us to be alarmed when you consider we have beaten the Indians about 31 out of 44 games in the past two years can you?

Would the Tigers offer the customers anything new this year?

'Well there's Al Simmons out there and if he hits .360 it won't hurt us will it? countered Cochrane. And we have a great young third base prospect in Don Ross up from Beaumont. He may not displace Marvin Owen this year but he can't miss in another year. He's big and strong. He can throw and he can hit.

If Cochrane has any worries they concern the tendency of some of his players especially pitchers like School Boy Rowe and Elden Auker to start slowly in the spring. The Tigers have been slow off the marks in each of their first two victorious races.

MANSFIELD, O. April 6—The new Ohio State baseball league a class D circuit still lacked an eighth member today following a meeting at which the seven cities holding franchises posted guarantees. President Harry Smith of Columbus said that unless an eighth member was found soon one of the present clubs would be dropped making a six club loop for a 100-game schedule to open May 14 and close Labor day. Cities participating are Mansfield, Canton Tiffin New Philadelphia Fremont Sandusky and Fostoria.

MILWAUKEE BREWERS LIVELY BIDDERS FOR ASSOCIATION TITLE

Manager Alan Sothoron Picks His Club as "First Rate Contender" for Flag

By The Associated Press
(This is another of a series concerning the prospects of the American association clubs)

MILWAUKEE, Wis. April 6—Milwaukee's Brewers were ranked today by Alan Sothoron, manager as "a first rate contender" for the 1936 American Association championship after the acquisition of three players from the Detroit Tigers.

The release by the world champions of Rudy (Chief) York first baseman and Outfielders Chet Laabs and Chet Morgan brought optimistic comment from the Brewers training camp at Lake Wales, Fla.

Luke Hamlin a right hander who joined the club late last fall is a standout among the pitchers. He is slated for lead off duty against the Colonels.

Other regular pitching talent includes Garland Braxton, Forest Presnell, Clyde Hatter and Joe Heving the latter a new member of the staff. Herman (Bill) Bell will get relief assignments.

Heavy catching duty will fall to Bill Brenzel purchased from Cleveland.

Chet Wilburn's steady play during exhibition games apparently has assured him of the shortstop assignment.

Sothoron has been grooming Eddie Hoje starting his third year with the club for the second base job. Lin Storti former second baseman who played third in training may be relegated to the utility ranks if the Brewers complete negotiations with the Tigers for Gilbert English. They have been unable to obtain him because the White Sox refused to waive on him.

Ted Gullic veteran centerfielder is the mainstay of the outfield. Morgan who played with Toledo last year and Laabs former Milwaukee sandlotter will take over the flanking positions. Roy Lind quiet Chicago sandlotter and Salvadore Hernandez Cuban star have been outstanding outfield performers in spring training.

Failure of Jack Kloza a right arm to respond to treatment after an operation last winter was a blow to the outfield lineup. Kloza normally a heavy hitter formerly played at center.

Jones in 36th Place As Cooper Leads Players in Augusta Golf Tourney

Bobby's Third Comeback Try Fails, But He Announces Plans To Continue Playing Tournaments; Play Continues Today.

By The Associated Press

AUGUSTA, Ga. April 6 — The rain harrassed Augusta National Invitation golf tournament was resumed today with the mud running professionals in pursuit of "Light Horse Harry" Cooper of Chicago, who started the final 36 holes with a five stroke margin over the all star field.

While Bobby Jones retired champion of the golfing world and pre-tournament favorite failed dismally in his third crack against the professional brigade Cooper led the field into the second half of the 72 hole competition with a 70-69—139 five strokes under par.

Harry Cooper the former British champion behind Cooper with even par 144 at the half way point.

It was plainly evident that Jones could not match strokes with the "money players" in meeting the ranking professionals once a year. His showing in the first 36 holes was his weakest since he started his "comeback" in the inaugural tournament in 1934. He had rounds of 78-78, 12 over par, and was thirty sixth in the field.

"I'm going to keep on playing in these tournaments," Jones said regardless of my showing. I don't intend to re-enter competition on a serious basis but I would like to do better than I have done here."

Cooper was a 2 to 1 favorite to walk off with the top prize of $1,000 but at least five professionals aside from Craig Wood twice runner-up equalled the course's competitive record of 67 in the second round. Horton Smith of Chicago 1934 winner, Ky Laffoon of Chicago, Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y. and Al Espinosa of Mexico City.

The cancellation of the finals yesterday cost the Augusta National club at least $5,000 in gate receipts.

BIG INDUSTRY STOCKS MOUNT

U. S Steel and General Motors Lead Rally as Issues Climb Two or More Points.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK April 6—Heavy industry stocks continued to push higher in today's market many registering new tops for the last 5 years or so with gains of fractions to 2 or more points

U S Steel and General Motors put on a race in the early proceedings. Both were up fractionally to a point or so but the former finally nosed ahead of the automotive issue

Among others prominent on the advance near the start of the fourth hour were Youngstown Sheet & Tube General Electric Chrysler Case Deere International Harvester Union Carbide American Telephone Anaconda Kennecott Delaware & Hudson New York Central Northern Pacific and du Pont

Brighter news from the business fronts brought in buyers for the old time leaders

Commodities on the whole were mixed Bonds were fairly steady Foreign currencies were firm in relation to the dollar

The influence of growing demand on steel mill operations was stressed by the magazine Steel which said that while price increases had recently stimulated orders inquiries for many products on which rates had not been boosted were equally impressive

The French franc at the beginning of foreign exchange dealings recovered 00[illegible] of a cent at 6 50 cents and sterling was unchanged at $4 95[illegible]

FRANCE SEEKS PEACE WITH LEAGUE BASIS

Broad Agreement Proposal Aimed To Counter Hitler's Bilateral Pacts Plan

By The Associated Press

France has begun a campaign for an all inclusive agreement against war in answer to Reichschancellor Hitler's proposals that separate peace pacts be negotiated bilaterally among the nations of Europe

French officials indicated they wanted any new security system constructed on the framework of the League of Nations while the German idea is that such a method is too unwieldy to insure peace

The first demonstrations of this conflict are likely to take place this week in Geneva London and Brussels with sessions of the League of Nations committee of 13 the general staffs of France Belgium and Great Britain and the Locarno treaty signatories respectively

ARREST 5 DRIVERS IN TRAFFIC CHECK

State Highway Patrolmen Watch for Violators at Mt. Gilead, Upper Sandusky.

Two traffic checks conducted by state highway patrolmen from the Marion sub-station the last week end resulted in arrest of five persons three for operating overloaded motor vehicles and two for driving with insufficient lights. The arrests for operating overloaded motor vehicles brought to 36 the total cited in the current drive on violators.

The Saturday night traffic check was held at Mt. Gilead. Robert Hartler of Columbus, cited on the overload violation pleaded guilty and was given a suspended fine of $5 and costs. Two Mt. Gilead drivers Paul Bushnell and Charles Shaffer Jr. were fined $5 and costs when they pleaded guilty to charges of operating with insufficient lights the patrolmen reported. Hearings were held in J. P. Pennell's justice of peace court at Mt. Gilead.

At Upper Sandusky earlier Saturday the patrolmen arrested John Shiner of Hudson, Ill. and Lee Stultz of Ft. Wayne, Ind. on the overloading violation. Both pleaded guilty in the court of Mayor Oscar Veith and were fined $25 and costs.

HOFFMAN SAYS HE WANTS WHOLE TRUTH

in a telegraph money order from Gov. Hoffman.

The governor said he was convinced the Lindbergh kidnap-murder was not a one man job and expressed belief that somewhere in the world there are persons breathing [illegible] relief — we got away with that.

If instead of Hauptmann not being guilty alone, he was not guilty at all there is another common danger to be considered, the governor said. This is the danger that any citizen may walk around a street corner into a set of circumstances which will bring the hand of the law upon his shoulders and hurry him to prison or death upon circumstantial evidence for a crime he has not committed.

There is ground for both doubts in the case of Bruno Richard Hauptmann. There are contradictions, impossibilities and inconsistencies in the evidence upon which he was convicted. Already there is the growth of a legend that he was not guilty and that he died unjustly. Such a legend as this may work great injury to the law and public safety.

Taking cognizance of the grill claim leveled at him for his activity in the case, the governor said he desired only to see truth and justice prevail and would meet his critics any where and any time upon that issue.

The 40-year-old chief executive today found himself opposed for delegate at large to the Republican national convention by former Rep. Franklin W. Fort.

Fort, one time secretary to the national Republican committee, said he would oppose the governor for delegate at large solely on the question of the governor's activity in the Hauptmann case.

There may be an aftermath of Hauptmann's execution on the floor of the legislature tonight when the governor presses for adoption of a resolution calling for a sweeping legislative investigation of the Lindbergh kidnap murder case.

The disposition on the part of many legislative leaders was to frown on an investigation believing that no good would come of it.

2 CARS AND TRUCK INVOLVED IN CRASH

Six Persons Escape Unhurt in Accident Near Bucyrus.

Six persons escaped serious injury in a traffic collision on route 30-N five miles east of Bucyrus last night at 8 o'clock. A car driven by Joseph Marish of Cleveland sideswiped a truck and then collided with an oncoming passenger car according to a report of highway patrolmen from the Marion substation who investigated.

Marish accompanied by Raymond Anderson and Sam Manuel, both of Cleveland was traveling east when his car hit the truck driven by Charles Feller of Sheffield O. Mrs. Lewis Barnum of Pennsylvania Pa. was driving the other passenger car. She was accompanied by her husband.

Occupants of the Marish car who received numerous cuts and bruises were the only persons injured the patrolmen said. Both passenger cars were badly damaged they reported.

APRIL RAINFALL TOTAL INCREASED

Heavy rains in the period from 8 a. m. Saturday until 8 a. m. today continued to boost the April precipitation rate here. In the 48 hour period 1.2 inches of rain fell according to Dr. I. H. Raffensperger government weather observer.

Freakish weather of the first six days of the month still held this morning when a heavy snowfall enveloped the city. Melting as fast as it fell the snow only poured more water on the already soaked ground.

That more snow is on the way tomorrow is indicated in the government weather forecast which predicts "fair and colder tonight, cloudy and probably snow Tuesday." Yesterday the temperature rose to 45 degrees and fell to 37 last night. A year ago the maximum was 37 and the low 32.

AAA FOES SCAN BIG PAYMENTS

Wallace Answers Vandenberg by Revealing Outlays Including $1,067,665 to One Firm

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 6—Buckling on their armor for major tax and relief jousts, opposing congressional forces found time also today to scan a disclosure of big payments made by the AAA for crop reductions.

Making his first bow to the demands of Sen. Vandenberg, Republican of Michigan, for data on the large benefit payments, Secretary Wallace revealed they ranged up to $1,067,665 in the case of one Florida sugar corporation.

Among the largest payments were $150,000 to a California hog farm, $29,398 to a California wheat farming concern, $561,964 to a Puerto Rican Sugar Corp. and $41,404 to a Florida tobacco concern.

Firm Gets $123,747

Wallace disclosed that the largest cotton payment, $123,747 for 1934, went to a Mississippi concern headed by Oscar Johnston, AAA official.

With few exceptions, the secretary did not name the recipients of the benefits but said he would forward a list of all those receiving over $1,000 to the senate if the chamber desired.

As the house ways and means committee sought to wind up hearings tonight on the $7,000,000,000 tax program, there were indications that the real fight over the measure will be in the senate. There it is believed new dealers will stage their fight to include in the program a new system of processing taxes on commodities advocated by the White House.

The ways and means program does not embody this suggestion. The major feature of the committee's plan is a tax of corporation net income graduated according to the percentage of undistributed profits.

When the program comes up in senate committee, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which has been withholding its formal objections, is expected to open fire.

FIRST OF SERIES

Members of Hoschuler Lodge No. 38 I. O. O. F. will be hosts at the first of a series of monthly meetings to be held by lodges in District No. 31 tonight at the hall on North Main street. The Marion lodge also will preside for work in the initiatory degree. Lodge will convene at 7 o'clock.

ISSUES ORDER FOR BOSCA, INC.

Judge Young Grants Petition for Dissolution of Marion Industrial Concern

Bosca Inc. of Posca Inc. Marion hosiery and web goods industry, was ordered in common pleas court today by Judge Hector S. Young acting on the petition of one of the company's creditors, Mrs. Stella Fraber of Mt. Victory.

Judge Young also continued T. J. Connor as related with the Lincoln company as receiver and approved appraisal of the company's property, valued at $19,052.70. Appraisers were George Stafford, A. W. Mason and George Orians.

J. W. Jacoby, attorney for both Mrs. Fraber and Posca, said the next step in the Posca case will be calling of a meeting of creditors by Referee Jackson, federal referee in bankruptcy, to elect a trustee to liquidate the company's property. The company has filed an action in federal court in Toledo concerning to adjudication of bankruptcy, the attorney said.

Judge Young issued his order of dissolution today when no one appeared at the hearing set for this morning to show cause why the company should not be dissolved.

An application to appoint a new receiver for the company, filed by a part of the petitioning creditors was refused Friday by Judge George P. Hahn in federal court in Toledo, Mr. Jacoby reported.

The suit asking the dissolution was filed by Mrs. Fraber March 25 after she had obtained a cognovit judgment in common pleas court against Bosca Inc. for $5,141.49. C. Bosca, president of the concern, filed an answer at once joining Mrs. Fraber in the request for dissolution of the company. In her petition Mrs. Fraber asserted the company's liabilities amounted to more than $25,000, a figure she said is greater than the assets.

COLD WINTER HELP TO MINERS OF OHIO

Union Leader Says Some 28,000 Out of 35,000 Members Worked Last Season.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 6—John Owens, district head of the United Mine Workers of America, said today the severe weather of this year gave members of his organization their best year since 1927.

During the winter, he said in an interview, approximately 28,000 of the 35,000 union miners in Ohio and the West Virginia panhandle were employed at least five days a month.

Employment was substantially above normal, he declared. Heavy demands for coal because of the abnormal cold weather provided jobs for hundreds of miners who would have otherwise been idle.

Owens credited the Guffey coal control act for some assistance in providing employment for miners of district 6 of the union organization. The act, he said, stabilized the coal market and thus enabled mines in this district to employ more men.

The union leader said he believed renewal of federal regulation from the mining industry would bring disaster to miners and mine operators alike.

Owens said he anticipated continued improvement of conditions if federal regulation of the coal industry were continued.

DIXIE STORM TOLL NOW BEYOND 150

but word from the community, 25 miles to the northwest, did not reach here until morning when the injured were brought in for treatment.

Not since the spring of 1931 have tornadoes levied such a toll as they have this season in the south.

The five-state disaster carried 1926 deaths far above 100 and the property loss well over $3,000,000.

From March 21 28 1931, twisters killed 370 persons and injured 2,687 in Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, South Carolina and Tennessee.

The storm first struck La Crosse, Ark., killing five persons then roared east into Tupelo in north east Mississippi. Suburban Willis Heights suffered worst.

Booneville, 15 miles east, was next to be struck.

From there the storm rushed northeastward into Red Bay, Ala., then veered into the Armour mines, Harlan mines and Cross Bridge villages in the Tennessee hills near Columbia.

J. P. Nacy, mayor of Tupelo, said dead and injured were being pulled from the wreckage of their homes for hours and it was feared many yet unreached were trapped and injured or killed.

A special relief train carrying 12 nurses, an anesthetist, hospital interns and medical equipment arrived in Tupelo early today from Memphis.

The business section of Tupelo was spared the full force of the blow and the Lee county court house, the Tupelo Military Institute and churches were turned into morgues for the dead and hospitals for the injured.

The Tupelo City hospital was destroyed by the storm.

A heavy rain helped firemen to extinguish the storm-generated blaze. The downpour was fortunate because the city's water tank had been blown down.

Tupelo members of Battery C, 114th field artillery, were called out to maintain order.

Gov. Hugh White ordered Adj. Gen. A. J. O'Keefe to Tupelo and other units of the national guard from Aberdeen, Amory and Corinth mobilized.

TVA workmen from Pickwick dam at Corinth and other nearby sections were rushed to Tupelo to aid in relieving the emergency.

SEC LOSES BATTLE IN SUPREME COURT

Effort To Make Oil Stock Dealer Testify Concerning Registration Proves Futile.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 6—The securities commission lost today in the supreme court in its long effort to compel J. Edward Jones, New York dealer in oil stocks to testify concerning a registration statement for a proposed issue of securities.

The 6 to 3 decision delivered by Justice Sutherland, did not pass on the constitutionality of the 1933 truth in securities act.

Justices Cardozo, Brandies and Stone dissented.

The legislation—enacted as a result of disclosures by the senate stock market investigation had been challenged by Jones as unconstitutional.

He defied the commission in its long effort to compel him to testify concerning a proposed $100,000 issue of securities. He sought to withdraw a registration statement filed with the commission but the government denied he had the right to do this.

The southern New York federal district court and the second circuit court of appeals upheld the legislation and ruled that Jones should testify.

By coming today, the decision set a record for speed of disposition of new deal cases at this term. Arguments were completed only 26 days ago. Other cases have waited from 58 to 60 days for action.

The supreme court deferred for at least one week a final decision on constitutionality of the Guffey coal act.

The court also refused to interfere with a lower court decision that the congressional resolution barring payment of obligations in gold does not prohibit collection of the equivalent value of foreign currency if that alternative method of payment is specified.

This left in effect a ruling by the second circuit court of appeals that the St. Louis Southwestern Railway Co. had to pay $42 on a $25 coupon payable in gold or the equivalent value of Dutch guilders.

WESLEYAN SET FOR SHAKESPEARE EVENT

Bucyrus, Galion and Kenton Schools Entered in Classic Reading Contest.

By The Associated Press

DELAWARE, O., April 6—Prof. R. C. Hunter, pointing to an entry list of 40 Ohio high schools in Ohio Wesleyan university's seventh annual Shakespearean reading contest declared today Shakespeare is coming back.

Professor Hunter, dramatics coach at Ohio Wesleyan, declared the depression had hit Shakespearean drama, but that rising interest in the matter's competition was evidence that a revival was on the way.

To enter the contest scheduled for April 17-18, a high school must have a team of two or three students prepared to present two of a list of scenes from Shakespearean plays selected by the university department of speech.

The university players will present "Twelfth Night" on the night of the contest.

High schools tentatively entered included Bucyrus, Galion and Kenton.

MASSILLON CAUTIOUS ON WATER PLANT PURCHASE

rates are high enough to pay off the bonds and build up a reserve

Regarding defeat of the municipal purchase proposal in 1934 Mr Brooks said he took the narrow margin of defeat at that time as an indication that Massillon residents would favor municipal ownership "if they really understood it He added that in his opinion the water company's arguments and editorials in the Massillon Independent had confused the voters prior to the election at which the proposal was defeated.

Opposed by Newspaper

The Massillon Independent not only opposed the original purchase proposal editorially, but also spoke sharply of the financing agreement the 1935 Massillon council signed with the bond house representatives Of that agreement identical with the one the same houses signed with the 1935 Marion council he paper said in part

City councilmen aided and encouraged by bond salesmen who are trying to hang on the city's four and one half per cent bond issue for the proposed purchase of the local waterworks system would do well to consider what has just happened in the city of Elyria where a Cleveland bond house paid a premium of $2 000 for $25 000 worth of waterworks bonds bearing three per cent interest

The city council should realize that the money market today is a borrowers market Banks and investors are hawking their funds from one good risk to another That it newed itself up in a contact with a bond salesmen advising to pay four and one half per cent interest may have been a smart deal for the bond houses and prospective bondholders but it might prove a costly deal for the citizens of Massillon

In the meantime the Ohio Water Service Co continues to operate privately the plant that has served Massillon since 1882

Records in the company's general office at Struthers O near Youngstown show the plant serves 6 600 consumers including 6 470 domestic users 25 commercial consumers 21 schools 80 industrial accounts and city departments It also serves 587 fire hydrants scattered over the system's 78 miles of pipe

To serve these customers the plant in 1935 pumped 1 660 000 gallons of water a day, according to Taylor Evans general manager of the Ohio Water Service Co This company operates other plants in Ohio one being at Marysville

Cost of Softening

Massillon's raw water contains approximately 23 grains per gallon of hardness This is softened to approximately five grains a gallon at a cost of $20 a million gallons for chemicals Mr Evans said

Records of the Marion Water Co show approximately $38 a million gallons is spent to reduce the hardness of the water from approximately 45 grains a gallon to around nine and one half grains

The softening plant of the Massillon system was installed in 1932 at a cost of approximately $175 000 Mr Evans said Prior to that time untreated well water was pumped The lime soda ash treatment is used to soften it now

Because the Ohio Water Service Co operates several plants its receipts and expenditures at Massillon are not listed separately in the annual report to the state utilities commission Mr Evans, however, made available a statement of 1935 expenditures and receipts explaining the figures had changed little if any since then. These figures list total operating receipts of $150,535.34 and operating expenses totaling $79 720.60

Detailed Statement

Receipts for the year in detail follow Domestic and commercial metered sales $105 420 42 domestic and commercial flat rates $1 485 69 industrial sales $13,943.87 municipal hydrant rentals $25,744.95 municipal miscellaneous sales $1 458.50 miscellaneous water revenues $1 774.20 miscellaneous operating revenues $739.32 main extensions $1 850.31

Operating expenses of the Massillon plant totaling $79 720.60 consist of $31 855 75 in commercial and general expense $4 908.98 for transmission and distribution $11,062.05 for purification $11 050.32 for power purchased $16 606.82 for taxes $2,370.87 for electric pumping expense $1 691 47 for steam pumping and $85.34 for water supply expenses

Among the expenses was $3 864 92 for maintaining the transmission and distribution system of the plant made up largely of $2,267 02 spent for meters The company also lists as one of its expenses $5 660 in uncollectable accounts In addition to local office expenses including $1 818 for the local manager the company lists general office and corporate expenses amounting to $5 173.25 Meter reading salaries amounted to $2 210.37

PREPARE EXTENSION OF WATER RATES

Final Steps in Effecting Contract with Company Set for This Week

Final legal steps to place into effect the 90-day extension of water rates voted by city council Friday night were begun today by city officials

City Solicitor Ralph F Carhart said he will draw this week a contract between the company and Service Director John V Ruth for city hydrant rentals during the 90-day period

In the meantime City Clerk Harry Brookshire mailed to the company copies of two ordinances adopted by council Friday night One extended metered rates for 90 days beginning May 4 and the other authorized the service director to contract for extension of hydrant rentals for the same period Formal approval and acceptance is expected from the company within a few days

The only possible obstacle in the way of acceptance of the ordinances by the company centered around the question of a certificate from the city auditor that the money is in the city treasury or the process of collection to meet hydrant rentals George Whykall water company manager told council the certificate should accompany the ordinances but City Solicitor Carhart held the certificate is not required at least not until May 4 when the present rates expire and the 90-day extension begins

AT EXPOSITION

Magic music mystery thrills and chills are all combined in the performance of Murdock (above) one of the foremost magicians of the country. Visitors to the Marion Better Homes Exposition to be held at 95 West Center street April 7 to 10 inclusive will see Murdock as one of the exposition vaudeville attractions.

types of furniture, women's ready-to-wear, gas appliances, electric appliances, dairy products, photographic services, farm equipment and supplies, soy bean products, confections, bottled goods, gasolines and lubricating oils, quality foods, baked goods, wheat products, corn products, printing, office supplies, jewelry, fuels, mattresses, all types of home furnishings, insurance information and information regarding loans for building and modernization.

One of the most elaborate exhibits will be that conducted by the Federal Housing Administration. The same display the FHA had at the national housing show in Columbus last month has been moved here for the Chamber's show. In connection with it will be an information booth where FHA representatives will supply complete information on how residents may build or buy homes or refinance mortgages under the federal government's single insured mortgage plan.

Opening Schedule

While all the exhibits are expected to be in place and the exposition in full swing at 2 p. m. Tuesday, the formal opening of the event will be held at 8 o'clock Tuesday night. Visitors in the exposition hall at that time will be addressed by Mayor F. C. Smith and P. T. Lewis, president of the Chamber of Commerce. Their brief talks will be carried to all parts of the building by the amplifying system.

Inside the front of the building which faces on West Center street there will be a lobby for the convenience of those who arrive before the doors open at 2 p. m. and 7 p. m. Exhibitors will be admitted to the building on their special tickets through the Holmes place entrance at the rear.

Mr. Brown said today he has received notice that delegations of business men and Chamber of Commerce representatives from other cities Ohio cities will visit the exposition during its four day run. Members of the committee on arrangements ask that Marion residents if convenient attend the show in the afternoon, as many out of town visitors from nearby counties are expected at the night sessions.

Entertainers Active

Most of the vaudeville acts that will exhibit their wares arrived in the city last night in preparation for today's rehearsals. Among them are such well known performers as the Marsh Sisters, the Three Chesters, Murdock the magician, the Sterling Rose trio and Tom and Jerry comics and tumblers.

Mr. Brown emphasized today that no games of chance, raffles or similar features will be permitted. It will be free from carnival atmosphere and every effort will be made to present high class entertainment along with the opportunity for residents of Marion and nearby counties to see and learn the latest trends in building materials, furnishings, clothing, food and the dozens of other services which go to make a complete modern home and maintain it, he said.

Chamber of Commerce officials today expressed thanks to a committee of local merchants who have assisted and advised Mr. Brown and his committee in making preparations for the show. Members are F. M. Bradson, chairman, A. L. Blatz, Arthur A. Van Atta, Millard Hunt, W. J. Gorton, G. A. Holland, Harry F. Marzwarth and Harold Carroll.

INSPECTION CUTS HOME COST $1,000

NEWARK, N. J.—The careful examination of a mortgage proposal by the Federal Housing Administration staff in the local insuring office was directly responsible recently for saving a prospective home builder $1,000.

After appraisal it was discovered by Housing Administration experts that construction costs as estimated by the contractor were $1,000 too great. The prospective mortgagor was informed of this fact by the New Jersey office. He interviewed the contractor. Investigation revealed that a mistake had been made in figuring certain costs. The builder agreed that the price of the house should be reduced by $1,000.

INDIRECT LIGHTING SYSTEM FAVORED

Indirect lighting has become a popular form of illumination and from cellar to attic this type of lighting may be found. It may be used with equal success as a means of lighting the outside of a home.

Entrance and front garden will be enhanced with light and the visitor will be able to locate the house with no trouble. A light so situated that it illuminates the walk between house and garage is doubly useful.

Illuminated panels at the side of a doorway or directly over it will display the house number advantageously. In rainy weather it will prevent the visitor from stumbling in puddles or tripping on the bottom step.

Cheapest Way To Shape Gardening Soil Is Best

The least expensive way to prepare soil for planting is the right way. The soil should be prepared, carefully and thoroughly loosened so as to cover all roots.

Well rotted manure is one of the best sources for enriching the soil, however this should never be placed in direct contact with the roots of plants. It is unwise to fertilize only the area where a plant or shrub is to be placed. This type of planting is known as pocket planting. As the plant grows the roots are stunted because the other part of the bed does not provide adequate food supply for the growing plant.

Heavy soils should be lightened with a straw manure or sandy loam. Light soils should be improved with vegetable matter.

Drainage is another important consideration when preparing beds for summer flowers. A sandy soil will have ample drainage whereas a clayey soil must, in most cases, be provided with artificial drainage. It is a mistake to hill earth around a plant as this drains the water away from the plant. A shallow depression should be left around the plant which will hold water to soak the roots.

There are plants and shrubs suited to all types of soil. If you are interested in a rock garden select the plants for that type of garden. If you wish an old fashioned rose garden there are specific types belonging in that class. Know your soil, your plants and planting conditions. Knowledge will give you the garden that you have dreamed of through the long winter days.

SAVINGS AND LOAN BILLION YEAR SEEN

Nineteen hundred and thirty-six is expected to be the first billion dollar year since 1930 for savings and loan societies. This is the opinion of L. W. Pellett, president of the United States Building and Loan league. He is quoted by the New York Herald Tribune as expecting 90 per cent of all such organizations to be actively engaged in home-mortgage lending before the end of this year. He also anticipates a nationwide building campaign.

Housing Question Box

Helpful Information About the Home.

Q—What type of house would you advise for a northern climate?

A—That is a pretty hard question. New England New York or Pennsylvania Colonial would be appropriate. In some localities French manor or English half timber would look well. Avoid styles that are peculiar to tropical climates and you are fairly safe. Build a house that will harmonize with its neighbors and do not introduce any violent contrasts.

Q—What can I do to stop rattling windows?

A—Have the windows weatherstripped or remove the stop or molding that holds the sash in place and reset it closer to the sash. Weatherstripping would be the better way as it accomplishes a saving in fuel as well as stopping the rattling. You might have both done to have a really good job.

Q—Whenever the toilet is flushed in our bathroom the drains in the tub and basin make a great noise. Can you tell me what causes this?

A—It is probable that there is only one trap on all three fixtures. This should be corrected. Each fixture should have its own trap for sanitary reasons.

Q—The gutter on the front of our house sags and lets the water run off over the door. Is this faulty construction?

A—If the gutter sags it is probably because one of the supports has given way. If it slopes gradually to the leaders and still the water runs over the downspouts or leaders are clogged or they are not adequate. Examine the supports then see that the drains are clear. If these two items are in order then you must install larger leaders.

Q—I notice that the putty holding in the window panes is cracking. Will a coat of paint be enough?

A—If it is the putty itself that is cracking new paint would probably not be sufficient to save it. You had better have new putty put in and then of course have that painted.

Q—Should awnings be taken down in the winter?

A—By all means. If you leave them up they will rot from dampness and be badly discolored by next summer. Besides the metal parts will be needlessly subjected to the weather and the time when they start to rust will be hastened. Take them down and store them carefully in a dry place.

Q—Is it all right to put oil paint on a ceiling over calcimine?

A—No. Wash the calcimine off first. It comes off quite easily. Be sure the plaster surface is dry before you put on the oil paint.

Q—Is it possible to have a built in tub installed in place of an old fashioned kind?

A—Yes it can easily be done. Call in your plumber and he can tell you just what need be done. It would be well to have it be hung on iron angles screwed to the studs then there is less likelihood of the tub settling and showing a crack where the plaster or tile meets the tub.

Q—The basecard in some of our rooms has pulled away from the floor and shows a big crack. Can you suggest a remedy?

A—If there is no molding at the junction of the baseboard and floor have one installed and be sure it is nailed through to the underflooring. If there is such a molding already there have it taken off and properly reset.

Q—Can I have more base plugs put in some of our rooms?

A—See Call in the electrician and he can figure on how it can be done. Don't let an alarmist do it as he might overload a circuit or have a bad connection and create a fire hazard.

Q—Our house is only about a year old and already there are cracks where the ceiling and walls meet. What should I do about it?

A—Evidently no metal lath was installed in these corners. These cracks are due to settlement and shrinkage of the frame. Have the cracks cut out and filled and then over a plaster molding about one-half inch from the ceiling this will hide any cracks that may subsequently appear.

Q—We are living in an old house and our furnace flue does not draw well. We have to leave the drafts on all the time to keep the heat up.

A—The flue may be clogged with dirt or a dislodged brick or tile. It may be too small or there may be an opening in it somewhere that acts as a check draft. As the house is old it may be an old stove pipe opening up tairs that has not been properly closed. Try out these possibilities and then tap the chimney walls in the rooms through which the flue runs and see if you find any hollow spots.

Q—Is there any way to get rid of the excessive steam in a bathroom without opening the window?

A—A flue can be run from the ceiling through the roof to carry off the steam. The register should be directly over the tub or shower bath and the flue should be at least 12 inches in diameter. The flue should be of noncorrosive sheet metal and if a chimney is near enough it may be carried through the attic space and made a part of the chimney. The register should be one that can be closed so that when there is no excess steam you will not get rid of the warmth of the room inside.

Q—Our tiled shower enclosure leaks. I should think the tile would make it waterproof. Can you tell me what to do?

A—Tile walls are not necessarily waterproof. If the joints between the tiles are not tight the water will get through and run down the back of the tiles. Have all the joints examined and pointed or filled to close any possible openings. Another possibility is the floor. All tiled shower stalls should have pans under the floor to catch any water that gets through the tiles of the floor. If you have one you should have one put in. If there is such a pan perhaps the connection between it and the floor is not tight.

Q—We would like to use our cellar for storage purposes but every time we put one there gets covered with mold. Can you suggest a remedy?

A—Mold comes from excessive dampness and lack of ventilation. If your cellar has an earth floor lay a concrete floor. If there are no windows or if the windows are inadequate provide the necessary window area and try to see that the windows are opened during clear weather. If you have a flue available that is not being otherwise used open it up and use it as a ventilator. If your cellar already has a concrete floor it may be water. Failed to keep out the dampness that evidently penetrates the walls or floor. Shut out the moisture and let in the air and your cellar should be reasonably free from mold.

Q—In laying out a stair what is the proper height for the steps?

A—Steps are divided into treads and risers. The tread is the flat portion you put your foot on and the riser is the perpendicular part that connects the treads. In residential work the height from one tread to the next should not be over 8 inches nor less than 6 inches. The distance from the face of one riser to the face of the next should not be less than 9 inches. A good rule of thumb is to have the sum of these two measurements equal 17½ or 18 inches. This gives a natural stair.

MORTGAGE LOANS SOUGHT

Capital is seeking placement in real estate mortgages rather than loans seeking capital in more than 90 per cent of the cities having a population of 100,000 or more. Authority for this opinion is the National Association of Real Estate Boards as reported by the New York Herald Tribune. The association reports that interest rates are falling in 47 per cent of the 775 cities are steady in 50 per cent of the cities and are rising in only 3 per cent of the cities.

REALTY VALUES BOOSTED

Residential construction has taken the lead in putting real estate back on its feet according to Lee E. Cooper writing in the New York Times. Mr. Cooper is informed from many reliable sources that 200,000 new homes will be built in this country this year. Easier mortgage money advantages of Federal Housing Administration loan insurance and a potential demand for new homes that has been held back for several years form the foundation on which these predictions are made.

Trend to Lower Height of Ceilings Prevalent

In most of the northern portions of the country ceiling heights have been brought down from the 10 to 12-foot elevations that our Victorian forebears cherished. The realization that all that space is useless waste and the reversion to the simple Colonial types of architecture have restored the proportions of rooms to those of that early day.

In some sections the South particularly the high ceiling still prevails. There are several reasons for this the feeling that this extra space makes the rooms cooler the lower cost of building the absence of need to figure the heating charges as a prominent item of household expense and the tradition of the stately old mansions of ante-bellum days.

While the psychological effect of great spaces above is to create a feeling of coolness, actually unless that space is properly drained of its heated air by high windows or vent flues it merely serves as a place to store up hotter and hotter air which in turn heats the ceiling and the floor above. Any space more than 12 inches above the heads of the windows unless ventilated is of no value for cooling purposes.

If the heads of the windows are seven feet above the floor lines—which is well above the heads of most people—then a room with an eight foot ceiling is really better than one with a 10-foot ceiling. In small houses the general proportions will be much more pleasing with this lesser height.

Lum and Abner Coming To Palace Stage Sunday

Two of radio's outstanding performers Lum and Abner will be on the Palace theater stage Easter Sunday, April 12. They are among the biggest stage attractions the theater management has booked.

Their Pine Ridge broadcasts over the NBC east and west coast network are listened to by hundreds of thousands of fans nightly.

These two who are really young men—Lum is 31 and Abner 29—were brought together for the first time in the entertainment business at an Elks club minstrel show out in Mena Ark.

Lum's real name is Chester Lauck and Abner in private life is Norris Goff. They started playing together about 20 years ago when they were boys in the home town in Arkansas and they've been partners in and out of the entertainment world almost every since.

Both entered the University of Arkansas but Abner decided to seek other fields for a while and wound up at the Art Institute of Oklahoma. A small man Abner turned into a sprinter and after starring in athletics at Arkansas U. and Lum also alma mater. Lum was starring in athletics at Arkansas U. and later enrolled in art courses at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts.

Getting together again in the home town Abner had a job as a streetcleaning salesman and Lum was working for the local building and loan. Then along came the Elks minstrel show. The boys got into blackface and put on a conversation act that had the audience in a panic.

Thus started the career which has landed them among the top notchers of the air.

'HANGING SKELETON' DEFENDANT GUILTY

By The Associated Press

EASTLAND, Tex., April 6—Raymond Henry, 25-year-old ice man was convicted yesterday of the hanging skeleton murder of H. L. McBee and his punishment fixed at 50 years imprisonment.

OPTIMISM PREVALENT

Real estate men were never more optimistic if one may judge from the very excellent symposium of opinion on real estate as published in the New York Herald Tribune. Thirty leaders in New York real estate are quoted by the Herald Tribune. They speak of real estate sales, new construction, finance, rentals and home planning for 1936. And the keynote is one of

INCLUDE REST ROOM IN BUILDING PLAN

Regarded As Essential for Modern Stores

What should be an important feature of all stores of any size is the rest room facilities provided Too often new fronts, new store fixtures new lighting effects new decorations are installed and the rest rooms are left in a dingy cellar or badly ventilated interior space The large oil companies have realized the commercial value of catering to the comfort of their customers and vie with one another in providing clean sanitary well ventilated rooms. Except in large department stores this matter is quite neglected by other retail merchants.

The good will generated by attention to the comfort of the customers will more than repay the expenditure necessary to renovate and completely recquip the rest rooms of a store or to install such rooms where none now exist.

—: The :— Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND

MARRIED COMBATANTS

Most domestic scraps arise from the efforts of one to demonstrate his (or her) superior intelligence—and the determination of the other not to be impressed

Marital quarrels come in three varieties Breakfast table scraps which start the day all wrong Restaurant table scraps which spoil the evening and the digestion And bridge table scraps which lead to insomnia—and sometimes to Reno

Just what there is about an innocent little table which arouses the fighting instinct nobody knows but the fact remains that most of the big domestic battles are fought across a few feet of mahogany

It has been argued recently that these little scraps are the main stay of matrimony since they serve as an escape valve for all the feelings of irritation resentment or pique which may have been piling up inside you and thereby save you from a big and tragic explosion

But this is fallacious reasoning It is easier to live with a man who stages a towering rage once in a while than to go on loving and living with one who sours every day for you by beginning it with a breakfast table grouch

And it is easier to love a woman who goes off the handle and starts throwing things once or twice a year, than to love one who greets you with a daily sulk or keeps your nerves twittering with constant little accusations and grievances Nobody wants a pet porcupine or a pet mosquito

It is seldom a big battle or a big quarrel that wrecks a marriage it is nine times out of 10 just a lot of little bickerings that gradually wear off all the glamour and romance and finally wear out the patience

Love is like a silk dress You can tear it and tear it and tear it—a little every day—until it goes to rags and you can no longer patch it up Every time you stab at a woman's vanity you hit her love. Every time you give a man a piece of your mind you lose a piece of his heart.

There are three kinds of marriages, according to W. L. George. Happy marriages, unhappy marriages—and those that are merely uncomfortable. The last are the hardest to escape and the easiest to come by.

If you [illegible] fight or a [illegible] and then, in [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] you.

GAINS IN PAINT TRADE SHOWN

Sales in 1935 Substantially Higher Than in Four Preceding Years

Paint sales in 1935 showed substantial gains over the four previous years according to reports made by the Bureau of Census by 578 concerns in the paint varnish and lacquer industry

Comparison of 1935 with other years shows a gain of 21 per cent over 1934 51 7 per cent over 1933 64 4 per cent over 1932 and 1 01 per cent over 1921 The 1935 volume, however was 6 1 per cent less than 1930 23 1 per cent less than 1929 and 20.5 per cent less than 1928

Gains for December 1935 over the same month in the four previous years were substantially greater than the gains for the entire year The increase for the last month of last year was 2" 3 per cent above December 1934 26 7 per cent above December 1933 111.3 per cent above December 1932 and 48 6 per cent above December 1931

Total Sales

The total sales of the 578 reporting concerns were $334 27" 600 for the year 1935 On the basis that this amount was only four fifths of the actual total for all concerns in the paint varnish and lacquer industry it would appear by simple computation that the real total was $417 547 031

Of the total sales made by the reporting concerns $99 005 361 represented industrial sales $139 356 219 trade sales and $104 866 23? unclassified sales

This decided improvement in paint sales is credited by leaders in the industry to the great impetus to property modernization and repair which began in the Summer of 1934 when the National Housing Act was passed

Unprecedented

The intensive drive for the inspiration of repair and modernization of property by the Federal Housing Administration in the Better Housing program in 1935 was unique without precedent in history according to Ralph W Emerson executive secretary of the National Clean Up and Paint Up Bureau Data obtained in that drive he said indicated that 25 per cent of the jobs pledged in the house-to-house canvasses were painting jobs and that another 25 per cent of the jobs involved painting The drive was pursued both in and out of what are commonly termed areas in the construction industry

"Did this tremendous effort have any influence upon the marked gain in the sale of paints and allied products" for only it did It would be impossible in consideration of such might efforts coupled with the definite gains which have been recorded to believe otherwise

BUILDING IN FLORIDA

The city of Miami Beach Fla which established some kind of record with its more than $9 000 000 building program during 1935 is on its way to bigger and better building in 1936 Its January building permits totaled $461 169 Fourteen new residences averaged more than $12 500

SYNOPSIS: Iris Lanning has made a success of her life without calculating wealthy Aunt Phina in New York She always had the idea that she would one day go back to Persia Pa where she was brought up Morgan Black would be there waiting for she just has learned that Morgan will not be waiting that he is to marry Kay Oliver So she is throwing herself more boldly than ever into New York life It is tonight she is at dinner with Allen Berkley and his extremely forbidding grandmother whose name happens to be Morgan

CHAPTER TWENTY SEVEN

High Praise

"AUNT PHINA'S from South Carolina she said She and my mother had to work because their people were impoverished by the war—and I don't know much about that side of the family

Brought up in convents I suppose" said the old lady

I don't know said Iris innocently It's really only my father's side I know about And that's because Uncle Will did genealogy after hours to make more money He is the kind who says a man's a man for a that you know He was always saying It's not what your ancestors are but what you are yourself

But my Aunt Ella his sister was rather interested in them If you are poor you know—or so he always said of a woman ancestors are a comfort ella ens said Iris mournfully what I don't know about every one of them from Grandfather Lanning who made the Last Grand Tour from Persia to the Council on Washington's staff

Did anybody tell you demanded the old lady that I am interested in genealogy" She fixed her sharp look on Iris again

They didn't have to said Iris cheerfully I could tell it You look like an old portrait or like Aunt Ella's friends back home That's why I felt so at home with you You're like Mrs Cadwallader and I think people who look alike are alike don't you

What Mrs Cadwallader?

Iris went into details and it presently appeared that there was reason It was a family distantly connected

One of her grandmothers was a Beckley I married a Morgan I had no sons only grandsons" said the lady looking over at Allan with a little sigh

Allan came over to them promptly putting a gentle hand on his grandmother's crackling taffeta shoulder

How are you getting on with this pretty thing grandy?" he said

I like her said Mrs Morgan decisively She's real I believe

Allan shrugged his shoulders We're all real—in a way Chacun mortels nappuyez lus is a good motto

Do you mean that you wouldn't ever want anyone to lean hard where you are concerned" Iris asked smiling up at him He looked surprised People didn't seem to expect girls who came from small towns to know French or anything she reflected with a little annoyance

With a sudden girlish desire to show them that there was something she did well she took from her evening bag the miniature of Aunt Phina Do you like this" she said

Mrs Morgan took it in her hand You shouldn't be allowed to carry valuable things like this around with vanity cases and quarters she said Oh it's modern I thought it was a Copley — same technique Madame Phina knows the best when she sees it

Iris hadn't expected quite all this she glanced up to see if she was being ridiculed No Mrs Morgan was in earnest There was nothing to do but go on however

It's an anchor to windward if it's as good as that" she said lightly I did it with my little hatchet

If you do them professionally I would be very glad to have you do one for me said Mrs Morgan with the same keen look

Iris shook her head with a little laugh I never have only placecards and for presents to the girls I'd love to do one for you for a present may I?

Mrs Morgan's face softened "I have a photograph—my daughter Louise who is dead I think it is upstairs here Allan has a copy

Iris who loved to give gleamed with pleasure Oh let me

And then they were interrupted by an irruption of guests Georgia Dicks Camilla in a wonderful frock that was badly carried and a long sloth with a guitar case and the complete dress of a cowboy

You look like a magazine cover" said Georgia coming over and taking the miniature She was in her usual red sharp and glittering as ever

I'll write to Mrs Cadwallader and my uncle about the Beckley branch if you like I'll said ignoring Georgia and speaking to Mrs Morgan

Thank you my dear said Mrs Morgan patting her hand She reached down and tied the miniature around Iris's throat unclasping the rose quartz beads and laying them in her hand It's safer there And I'm glad to see that you have one accomplishment that has almost gone out" she added while Georgia moved away summoning the boy with the guitar and gesturing Camilla with a mock their places without visible effort or unnecessary rudeness I do not said Mrs Morgan, "like the manners and customs of modern girls"

But I am modern protested Iris or I hope so"

"I am seldom mistaken in my judgment of people said Mrs Morgan and Iris knew she spoke the truth And I am especially glad to have had this talk with you I am the executrix of the estate Madame Phina is leaving to you young things or so she tells me and frankly I wanted to see my prospective tenants"

Here we are said Iris spreading out her hands gayly She liked Mrs Morgan even if her name struck a sore place After all it was a fairly common name

Come Elsie Dinsmore let me have Grandma's knee for a minute said Georgia with that gayety she could summon when she wished Grandma's knee included Allan standing sentinel behind her But Iris was quite willing A glance at Allan beckoning and he was beside her She was not sorry to punish Georgia for she evidently had meant to be unkind

The last guest an elderly man for Mrs Morgan unmistakably a lawyer with a pleasant maskl ke regular face and white mustache and hair entered and they went in to dinner across a narrow hall to a dining room which might also have come from colonial Persia

Iris was next Allan with Dicky on her other side Owen had inevitably been given Camilla He looked with a comic despair at his sister as they moved around the table looking for their place cards

Oh be nice to her she's so unhappy Iris whispered

Oh Lord you too" he said

Men are horrid said Iris hotly But she was smiling happily at Allan in another moment He was so gentle so friendly you always felt delightful when Allan was near he smoothed you the right way Georgia on Allan's other hand ther cowboy singer placidly silent beyond her flashed a swift host — and hasn't he the most exciting place you ever saw"

It isn't as exciting to me as mechanistic decoration said Iris honestly because where I come from were fatally colonial But it is exquisitely thought out

Ah wait till you see my Matisse room said Allan I keep my modern stuff away from all this because it would make the ancestors stand on their heads in agony And quite incongruously I kept there the horns and heads and so forth that I've shot

You've been everywhere and seen everything from what I can find out Iris said

He laughed but he looked flattered Not quite

In other words Iris is saying said Georgia from his other side Beautiful what makes you look so beautiful"

Georgia wants to know what you do about it? Allan said He was playing her off a little against Georgia she thought and then was ashamed of herself for Georgia said softened You are lovely you know And a new kind of girl is so exciting Madame Phina is even cleverer than I thought she was to have this particular kind of niece

I'm nothing like as nice as Owen Iris protested smiling back at Georgia and turned to talk with Dicky on her other side

Georgia's clever isn't she" said Dicky D'you know how she got the cowboy singer? Never saw him before Wrote him a fan letter and invited him He called up and said he'd take a chance if we would Nice isn't he?

He was nice a gentle long silent boy who evidently was taking notes for the folks at home and thought it was mighty sweet of them to ask him to the party It seemed queer to Iris but she was beginning to understand better the snatching casualness of the group's social life Anything for the amusement of the moment at least Georgia and Dicky were like that

The party grows considerably rougher tomorrow

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Injury To Hands.

Nature has given each of us two hands We constantly use them never thinking of the intricate mechanism that controls their movements To use one or both and have it damaged is a real calamity

Every day in a large general hospital becomes necessary for some surgeon to amputate a finger or even a hand This must be done in order that the patient's life may be saved

In most instances such a serious loss might have been prevented if immediate medical attention had been given the original injury Too often a wound appears to be a simple abrasion or bruise may be the forerunner of a serious infection Neglect of the first wound may mean permanent deformity or actual loss of a finger or the hand

Within the past decade I am glad to say there has been a remarkable decline in the number of hand accidents in industrial labor This is the happy result of the installation of safety devices and of intelligent instruction in guarding against injuries

Another factor is the emphasis placed upon the need of immediate medical attention This is vital in all injuries of the hand regardless of how trivial they may seem Please do not forget this

In many states it is required by law that first aid facilities trained nurses and doctors shall be available in all large plants This humane legislation has helped to cut down the evil effects of old time neglect

But in spite of this progress in industrial establishments household accidents occur as frequently as ever This is shown by the continual loss of fingers hands and arms

Too many are careless about their fingers and hands Peeling blows cuts burns or other injuries they fail to see as something application or antiseptic It is no wonder that serious infections of the hands continue to take their annual toll

Musicians artists doctors and others who value and appreciate the importance of good hands rarely if ever abuse them Yet to everybody else the hands are precious and equally deserving of attention and care Never neglect a burn cut or infection of the hand Prompt attention may mean the saving of the hand

Throbbing of the injured part is often the first sign of infection Swelling may occur but often the infection is so deep-seated that the swelling is not prominent

Many persons avoid the doctor because they fear an operation may be advised Bear in mind that early incision of an infection of this sort is advisable It enables the victim to escape a more extensive operation with the danger of amputation

Of course prevention is far more important than attempts at cure Respect your hands and fingers They are priceless and can never be replaced with an acceptable substitute

SUGGESTIONS FOR KITCHEN LAUNDRY

In a house that has no laundry room a combination sink and laundry tray in the kitchen will prove a great convenience If the kitchen is large enough to store a washing machine as well, all the household laundry work can be done right there If there is no room for the machine all but the large pieces like sheets and table cloths, can be washed in the combination fixture Such fixtures take up no more room than the usual sink and drainboard, as they come as small as 36 by 20 inches

CARTOON THEME FROM CRESTLINE

The theme for one of the "Daffy Doodles" in The Star's Saturday edition of comics was furnished by Richard Dickinson of Crestline. The drawing "Listening to the March of the Year," was suggested by Dickinson to the cartoonist, Doc Winner, who devotes space each week to drawings suggested by his readers.

CHATFIELD FARMER DIES

BUCYRUS, April 6—Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Nazareth Lutheran church for David Kibler, 63, Chatfield farmer, who died late Friday at the Chatfield school house from a stroke of apoplexy. Burial was made in the church cemetery.

DESIGN FOR WEEK-END HOUSE

The week-end house in Connecticut shown today provided the architect with an interesting problem—of achieving artistic freedom despite the very low cubage cost.

The site also posed its own problem, as did considerations for practical week-end use.

The result is a comfortable, restful country house.

Walls are double, the outside painted a light buff. Red quarry tiles were used for coping and window sills. The steel sash and other trim are painted red-brown, the garage doors, buff.

The reinforced concrete walls in the living room, laid up with movable molds, were left untreated. Ceiling joists were stained, with insulating board between under the second floor. The fireplace also heats two supplementary air ducts.

Herbert Lippmann is the architect, and the house is one of a series of distinguished small homes appearing in "Architecture."

HOME CONSTRUCTION FORECAST FOR 1936

Residence construction during 1936 will continue to lead the construction volume throughout the country, is the opinion of Stephen F. Voorhees, president of the American Institute of Architects, in a statement to the New York Times. Mr. Voorhees notes a substantial housing shortage. He notes as an encouraging sign the higher rating given to plans prepared by architects when prepared in connection with structures to be financed with government-insured mortgages.

REPAIR NEEDS HIGH

How keenly do we need residential-property repairs of single and double-family homes in this country? The New York Herald Tribune, quoting Mr. Herbert Abram, president of the Ruberoid Co., reports this need to the tune of $7,800,000,000. Mr. Abram blames deterioration through inability to maintain normal upkeep during the past six years.

ON THE POLITICAL FRONT

THEODORE A. HUNTLEY

By The Associated Press

Theodore A. Huntley cast his first vote for "T. R." in the Bull Moose campaign. Now he is engaged in bending all his energies to defeating "F. D."

He is director of publicity at Republican national headquarters. His job demands he direct the trend of propaganda going out to newspapers, that he edit the hand-books being prepared on campaign issues, that he know just what the party's campaigners are doing and where.

This is the first national campaign in which he has taken an active part, but he has covered many of them as a Washington newspaperman, and he helped direct state campaigns for former Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, for whom he was secretary.

Huntley is a small, reserved person whose conversation crackles. He seems to enjoy his 14-hour working day.

"Better Homes"---The Road To Happier Lives---Attend Marion's Great Exposition April 7, 8, 9, 10.

HOME! One of the three great influences of all our lives. At Forest Glen we have endeavored to incorporate all the warmth and goodness and sentiment of a home in the atmosphere of the beautiful and luxurious Cathedral lounge. Our thought has been to provide a peaceful and home-like haven where those with loved ones passed on may come for consoling reverie with beloved and precious memories. Each new day adds reassurance to the logic and wholesomeness of the modern burial park ideal. The cemetery since time began has been a cold and forbidding place—a city of graves—a community of unconsoled grief. It has remained for the modern memorial park, with garden-like beauty, warm and vital with growing things, and its home-like atmosphere, expressed as it is at Forest Glen, through the music and facilities of a Cathedral Lounge, a home in itself, to lift the pall of mourning and lighten the burden of grief in appreciation of everlasting sanctuary.

We invite you to visit the Forest Glen Memorial Park display at the Marion Better Homes Exposition, Tuesday through Friday.

KATHLEEN NORRIS wrote this about TOMBSTONES

"All there is to show for their money is foolish looking stones; pretentious ones crowded up against humble ones; neglected ones against carefully tended ones; artistic ones neighboring atrocious effects, in which angels and lambs and sometimes even statues of the dead are preposterously grouped. Stones are stained, tipped and broken. The jealous earth creeps over them and the grass and wild flowers do their best to devour and digest them."

OLD TIMEPIECE REPLICAS

Will Be A Part Of Our Display At The Better Homes Exposition

The CLEPSYDRA or "water thief" is one of the very oldest forms of timekeeping instruments. Water is the spring in this clock, a replica of one made in England in 1682. History tells us that the CLEPSYDRA was in use 3000 B. C.

The SUN DIAL GUN is a replica of an ancient timepiece which utilized the mid-day sun to fire a cannon. It was made by M. Rosseau, of Paris, in the 17th century.

One thousand years ago King Alfred's TIME CANDLE was the official English timepiece. He used it to divide his day into three equal parts for prayer, administration, and rest and recreation.

By the unsteady light of the LAMP CLOCK the mighty lords of the 17th century measured time and made the most of their busy days. It was accurate....after a fashion....for the pewter girdle encircling the reservoir, served as a dial, and the lowering level of oil marked the passing hours.

See these ancient timepieces at the Exposition and with them our newest styles in HAMILTON WATCHES....the timepieces which successfully fill America's 20th century watch requirements. ....BEAUTIFUL, ACCURATE, DEPENDABLE.

Former Vice President Charles G. Dawes played with his mud reluctant pipe and gave the low down on the oldsters questions about missing landmarks.

Our questions seem to relate more to beer halls than to art museums he chuckled.
